I like arts because they are colourful, they bring out something that people have inside them and it shows them what they like.

Lizzy Stewart, Author and Illustrator

Art is important for kids because it is important for them to have an outlet for ideas, for the madness of being a child. It's a way of having adventures that they can manufacture at home or in the classroom, a way of travelling the world but with pen and paper or with paint. All of that is vital.
